New county building proposed by McMahon

Warden Jim McMahon has proposed that county council take a fresh look at constructing a new county administration building.

He floated the idea at the opening of Wednesday's County Council meeting and so far it seems to have encountered few waves.

The warden has suggested that the county purchase a block of land on Highway 35, directly across from Walker's Auto Repair in Minden. He proposed that by accessing the infrastructure funds available through the federal and provincial governments, the county could build a structure on the property which could serve as its administrative headquarters. As well, he suggested the building could also generate revenue by leasing space to the Ontario Provincial Police for the local detachment.

County Clerk Treasurer Terry Noble, prepared an estimate of the cost of such a building. He told the meeting the project could cost between $1.9 and $2.4 million. He noted the county has received approval for the expenditure of up to $1,314,746 in infrastructure funds which would be provided by the federal and provincial governments. The county's share would be $835,254, for a total project cost of $2,150,000.

Noble said the cost to debenture the county's share over 15 years was determined to be $109,900 per year. The estimated income from the rental of space to the OPP was $49,500. The county currently budgets $12,600 for renovations to its present building. Combining these two amounts and subtracting the total from the annual debenture debt, brings the cost to the county down to $47,800 per year, or 1.67% of the current county levy.

McMahon pointed out that the financial study of the proposal does not take

Group questions Hyland Crest DON dismissal

An attempt to learn why the Director of Nursing at Hyland Crest Senior Citizens Home, Phyllis Hiltz-Bontje, was fired from her post in June, was met with silence at Wednesday's County Council meeting.

The question was raised by Muriel Harrington, a spokesman for an advocacy group recently formed to assist residents of the home in resolving problems they may have with the administration, staff or other agency.

However, when Harrington addressed the members of the council in public session, she was told the matter concerned personnel and they would not and could not discuss the it in open council.

Later in the meeting, in a report from the personnel committee, the council was formally told what everyone at the table already knew, that Hiltz-Bontje had been dismissed from the post June 15, "without cause", after consideration by the committee.

According to Harrington, the dismissal was one of a series of senior staff changes that had taken place in the past couple of years at Hyland Crest. She said the residents of the home, most of whom are senior citizens, become worried when changes are made and no explanation is offered. "It is frustrating to the residents and those of us who care about the operation of the Home when these things happen and no

Proposed trout management changes worry anglers, businesses

Opinions on the Ministry of Natural Resources' proposed changes to lake trout and brook trout fishing regulations vary. Most anglers in the area are concerned about the trout fishery in the Highlands, but those concerns are not being voiced forcefully if the ministry open house sessions are any indication.

Fewer than 50 people turned out for the MNR's open house in Minden recently.

In spite of the relatively poor turnout, ministry officials are aware that anglers who pursue those species are concerned about the proposals. Talk around area bait and tackle shops is critical of the lack of options presented by ministry biologists and the lack of advance notice of the local meetings.

Tim Haxton, a biologist with the Minden MNR, said it is important to note that the options presented at the meetings are not carved in stone. He added that if none of the options are acceptable to the anglers of the area, some compromises may be made.

As it stands, the deadline for public consultation is August 10. That is when the ministry will review all of the questionnaires that were filled out by those who did attend the open house. Additional questionnaires are available at the Minden MNR office for those who weren't able to attend but would like to offer their comments.

Haxton stresses that public input is important and if the ministry finds that further public consultation is needed after August 10, the necessary arrangements will be made to facilitate that input.

Lake trout are the focus of attention for the local anglers since only two lakes in the district covered by the Minden MNR produce natural populations of brook trout.

All of the lakes in central Ontario that support lake trout have been categorized as producing large-bodied fish or small-bodied fish. Almost all of the lakes in Haliburton County produce the large-bodied variety.

One display at the open house shows two 11-year-old lake trout. The small-bodied fish was in the one and a half pound range, while its counterpart from a large-body producing lake was six to seven pounds.

The proposed ban of baitfish, in conjunction with other strategies is one option one explains why," Harrington commented.

Warden Jim McMahon pointed out following the meeting that the county council, the personnel committee and individuals councillors are forbidden to speak publicly on the issue because it is considered a private matter. The dismissal of a senior staff member can often result in legal action and so comments made by councillors could impact on any civil action.

That restriction, however, did not stop one member of county council, former warden and now Reeve of Snowdon Township, Fred Simmons, from announcing Wednesday that he would no longer be a member of the Hyland Crest board of management. He said his resignation was directly linked to the way the committee handled of the dismissal of the director of nursing. Earlier in the year, he had withdrawn as chairman of the committee, again because of the handling of a personnel matter. During the Wednesday meeting Simmons said he felt control of Hyland Crest had moved from the management board to the personnel committee.

Following the meeting, Simmons said he could no longer accept the way the committee was dealing with its responsibilities and felt the only honourable action was to step down.

His action drew little support from his fellow county councillors, however. The chairman of the personnel committee, Ross Rabjohn, commented as he made his report, that he felt the group was conscientious and hard working and he was concerned about the negative slant Simmons' comments had place on its actions. Other members of council chastised Simmons for his comments. Minden Reeve Bern Berry and Glamorgan Reeve Bev MacDuff described his comments as being "out of line." Berry said Simmons' resignation had been "greeted with glee" by the other members of the committee and added that there was a good reason for Simmons' resignation. Berry said he would not elaborate on his comments. MacDuff reminded the councillors that personnel matters should not be discussed in public, effectively closing the discussion on this matter.

The issue is not closed, however, as far as the new residents' advocacy group is concerned. Harrington said the residents are obviously concerned about what is taking place at the home. They recently provided financial support for two members of the new group to attend a meeting in Toronto, at which new regulations regarding residents' rights and advocacy were discussed. "We're not here to cause trouble," Harrington explained, "We just want to provide a voice for the residents, especially those who may not have family nearby to provide support." She said the group has already helped to resolve some concerns and hopes to be of assistance in the future.

Harrington said the advocacy group is interested in what is best for the residents; a sentiment mentioned by just about everyone else involved in this dispute.

into consideration revenue from the sale of the present county building, the property acquired several years ago on the Allsaw Flats or the sale of the Registry Office. McMahon suggested that the Ministry of Consumer and Commercial Relations, which is responsible for the Registry services, has expressed a desire for improved quarters in Minden.

As well, the commander of the Minden detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police Dennis Edlington, endorsed the idea. He told the meeting that the detachment is outgrowing its current facilities, that the building has many deficiencies and that renovations will be needed to the present structure in the near future. He said, "This is a unique proposal which is an opportunity for both levels of government to co-operate and reduce costs." He said the proposal offered an opportunity for closer cooperation between the county and the OPP, who serve the same constituency. Edlington added "If this proposal is successful, the money paid by the OPP for the leased space would be utilized to carry a substantial portion of the debt incurred by the county to establish this joint facility. The money would stay in Haliburton County instead of leaving the area as it does now."

McMahon said there would likely be other agencies and services, which would find it convenient to be close to or in the same building as the county administration. By leasing space to these services, the county could generate even more revenue.

"Council has debated what to do about our building for some time," McMahon told the meeting. "...the site I am proposing provides direct highway access for the OPP, plus the location will make a very positive statement about Haliburton County to visitors driving through Minden."

McMahon said the county would be shirking its responsibility if it didn't make use of the infrastructure money that has been allotted to it. He pointed out the application for the funds has to be made now, but the decision to proceed will rest with the new council, which will be sworn in following the municipal election this fall. He also pointed out that although the county has made a commitment to assist in the support of the improvements to health care facilities in the county, the infrastructure funds cannot be applied to health care projects.

Facing the new invaders: Canning Lake property owners hear about the latest threats to the environment

Canning Lake is being invaded.

That was the message brought to the annual meeting of the Canning Lake Property Owners Association July 10.

According to representatives from the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters, purple loosestrife has been seen in the area as has the spiny water flea. Keith Clarke and Jill McKinlay of the federation, were on hand to discuss the nature of the invasions and what can be done to reduce the impact of the species on the environment.

Clarke noted that the two invaders, along with the zebra mussel, are classified as exotic species. They are non-native species which have been introduced to North America from Europe. He noted that conditions in North America favour the species and because they are away from their natural setting, there was no predators to keep their growth in check. This makes them a threat to other species and in some cases poses a hazard to human activity.

Purple loosestrife

Clarke told the meeting that purple loosestrife proliferates in such numbers that it can quickly choke out other plants in marshes. By doing so it reduces the diversity of the aquatic vegetation, thereby reducing the habitat for natives species and the birds, animals and aquatic life which depend on them.

Clarke outlined three approaches to controlling the invasion of the loosestrife plant. "If the plants are present in small numbers, they can be removed by grabbing the main stalk at the base and pulling them out." He said it is important to ensure the entire woody root system is taken with the plant or it will simply start a new plant next season.

In larger numbers, where uprooting all the plants would not be practical, Clarke recommended that plants be cut off just above the root stock. He said this would have to be done for several years to slowly starve the root and eliminate the infestation.

Where even larger infestations occur, he suggests the flower heads of the plants on the outer perimeter be cut off. He noted this would not eliminate the plant, but would reduce the possibility of it spreading beyond the area it has already occupied.

In all cases, he said, the plant material which is removed should either be burned or bagged and taken to a landfill site to be buried with the other garbage. Clarke noted the viability of the seeds is such that composting the plants is not considered to be a method of disposal.

Asked if there was a herbicide which could be used to control the plant, Clarke noted that the product 'Round Up' is effective against purple loosestrife, but it is not approved for use in aquatic locations. "At the moment there is no herbicide which has been approved for use in or near water," he told the audience. Round Up, applied topically, is effective in controlling loosestrife in non-aquatic locations.

Clarke told the meeting that scientists are currently examining the possibility of introducing a beetle which eats the loosestrife plant exclusively, as a control measure. He noted however that several years of study are needed to ensure that the insect itself does not become a problem.

Asked if there was any beneficial aspect of loosestrife, Clarke said that in Europe the plant is used as an ornamental, is a source of honey and is also used as an herb. (For the latest update on "Project Purple" see story on page 18.)

Spiny water flea

McKinlay told the meeting that the spiny water flea has been found in Canning and Kashagawigamog lakes. "This is a relatively new 'invader' and is believed to have arrived in the Great Lakes in the ballast water of ocean-going ships." She said the flea is visible to the unaided eye. The spiny water flea eats plankton on which small fish feed. As a competitor for the food sources, its presence can reduce the viability of smaller fish. It is unfortunately not eaten by small fish.

At the moment there are no control measures the public can take to reduce the number of spiny water fleas. McKinlay suggested that the public's only defense is to reduce the spread of the invader. She noted that transfer of the flea can take place through water in bait buckets or in boat bilges and motor cooling systems, or in the egg stage in mud on the bottom of boats. She said the public must be aware of the potential for transferring the fleas from one body of water to another and take the necessary precautions to ensure it doesn't occur.

Zebra mussels

Similar precautions are suggested to prevent the spread of the zebra mussel.

Although it has yet to reach the Haliburton Highlands, this invader has been seen as far north as Balsam Lake. While the area may have some "natural protection" in the lack of calcium in the Highlands rock necessary for the mussel's shell development, and the

McRae enjoys summer in the Highlands with family

St. Louis Blues forward spends the off-season at his cottage on Boshkung Lake

by Jerry Grozelle

At six feet two and 210 pounds, with a five o'clock shadow that starts to appear about noon, Basil McRae can be an intimidating character. With his aggressive on-ice style, the 33-year-old left winger for the St. Louis Blues is the type of hockey player who is respected by his teammates and opponents alike.

In contrast to his tough-guy image in the National Hockey League, McRae is a down-to-earth family man when he's not in uniform.

He and his wife Jill met while he was playing junior A hockey for the London Knights. They will celebrate their 10th anniversary on August 1.

The McRaes have three children, Alexandra, 6, Philip, 4, and Abbey, an infant of eight months. They are spending the off-season at their cottage on Boshkung Lake.

"This is the first year the kids haven't spent the Fourth of July in the States," Basil said.

All three of the McRae children are American citizens. Alexandra and Philip were born in Minnesota and Abbey was born in Missouri.

Basil and Jill bought the cottage last summer and renovations were just completed a few weeks ago. He couldn't say enough about the quality workmanship of local contractor Glenn Diezel, who built the addition and did the renovations.

McRae is a native of Beaverton, Ontario and he played his minor hockey there until he was 15 years old. So, he is no stranger to the Highlands.

"We played against Haliburton, Minden, Fenelon Falls, Bobcaygeon....," he said. "We always seemed to play Haliburton in the playoffs."

From the Beaverton minor hockey system, McRae went to the Metro Junior B loop, where he played for the Seneca Nationals. From there, he was drafted to the London Knights, where he played for three years.

The Quebec Nordiques picked McRae up in the NHL draft and he was in that organization for two years. He went from there to the Toronto organization where he played for two years in the American League for St. Catharines.

His next stop was Detroit for two years, one of which was with the Adirondack team.

"We won the Calder Cup that year," he said. "The next year I was in Detroit. I moved around quite a bit."

McRae's longest stint with one NHL team was five years with the Minnesota North Stars. He might still be with that franchise in Dallas if it weren't for injuries.

"On February 28, '92 I cut the tendons in my left ankle and had microsurgery on my tendons," he explained. "I came back from that and the third day I skated in practice, I lost an edge and went into the boards and broke my leg."

While he was on the mend from surgery to put an 18-inch steel rod in the tibia of his left leg to repair the fracture, he was left unprotected by Minnesota.

He was picked up by Tampa in the expansion draft.

"I got there and the third game into the year I rebroke it," McRae said. "So '92 wasn't a good year for me."

"I think a lot of people thought I'd retired at that point because I'd had surgery on my leg three times. When I came back from the third one, I only played about 10 games for Tampa Bay and they traded me to St. Louis. That was February first of '93, so I've been with them for a year and a half now."

Of all the teams McRae has played for, Minnesota remains his favorite, mainly because he was there the longest.

"We had a nice home there," he said.

McRae liked the quality of life in Minnesota.

"I could be sitting in Minnesota right now and looking at the same thing I'm looking at right here," he said. "Latitude, the way of life, the lakes... If you look at national ratings of schools, best place to raise a family, health care, Minnesota's right up there. It really is a great kept secret. When people think of Minnesota, they think of Little House on the Prairie with the cold and blowing."

The recent announcement that Mike Keenan has jumped ship from the New York Rangers and signed on as coach and manager of the St. Louis Blues has had an effect on McRae, even before he reports back to training camp.

Keenan is known as a strict disciplinarian and McRae is determined to live up to any expectations the team's new leader may have.

"He's had an effect on me already. I never was under 35 minutes riding my bike into town and that Monday morning (that the announcement was made) I made it in 34 and a half minutes," he said. (McRae rides his bike to Minden from the cottage three times a week to work out at the Spot 97 gym.)

"And I have a five mile course that I run that usually takes me 36 to 37 minutes and I ran it in 34:15 the other day. So, he's scaring the crap out of me," he laughed. "He demands a lot; he's a disciplinarian. You know, a lot of guys might not like him, but he's made a lot of guys a lot of money by making them successful players."

The circumstances under which Keenan declared himself a free agent and signed with St. Louis prompted Rangers management to respond by asking the NHL to block the deal between Keenan and the Blues. An arbitration hearing has been set.

McRae speculates that even if the NHL rules against Keenan in the arbitration hearing, the new coach/manager will likely be allowed to stay with the Blues if some form of compensation is paid to the Rangers.

Does McRae have any aspirations of moving into management in the NHL when his playing days are over?

"I'm not going to say no," he admitted. "But I'd have to say right now that I'm not really leaning towards staying in hockey. This will be my 14th year (in professional hockey). I have three kids now and being away from your family so much, sure there's a great advantage of having the summers free but I don't know if I want to stay in hockey."

When he was in Minneapolis he worked three summers for a paper company. He said he enjoyed the job and it opened doors for him down the road.

"I don't think any active player can say, while he's playing, how much he's going to miss the game when he's finished. It depends on how quickly you find something else to do that you enjoy. Most of us retire from hockey at 30 or 35. We've never really done anything else except play hockey since we were 16 or 17. The demands are the same as a regular job. It's a profession when you're 16 or 17."

How does a resident of Chesterfield, Missouri, a suburb of St. Louis, become a summer resident of the Haliburton Highlands?

An uncle of Jill's has a cottage on Boshkung Lake and it was during family visits at the lake that they decided they would like to have property in the area.

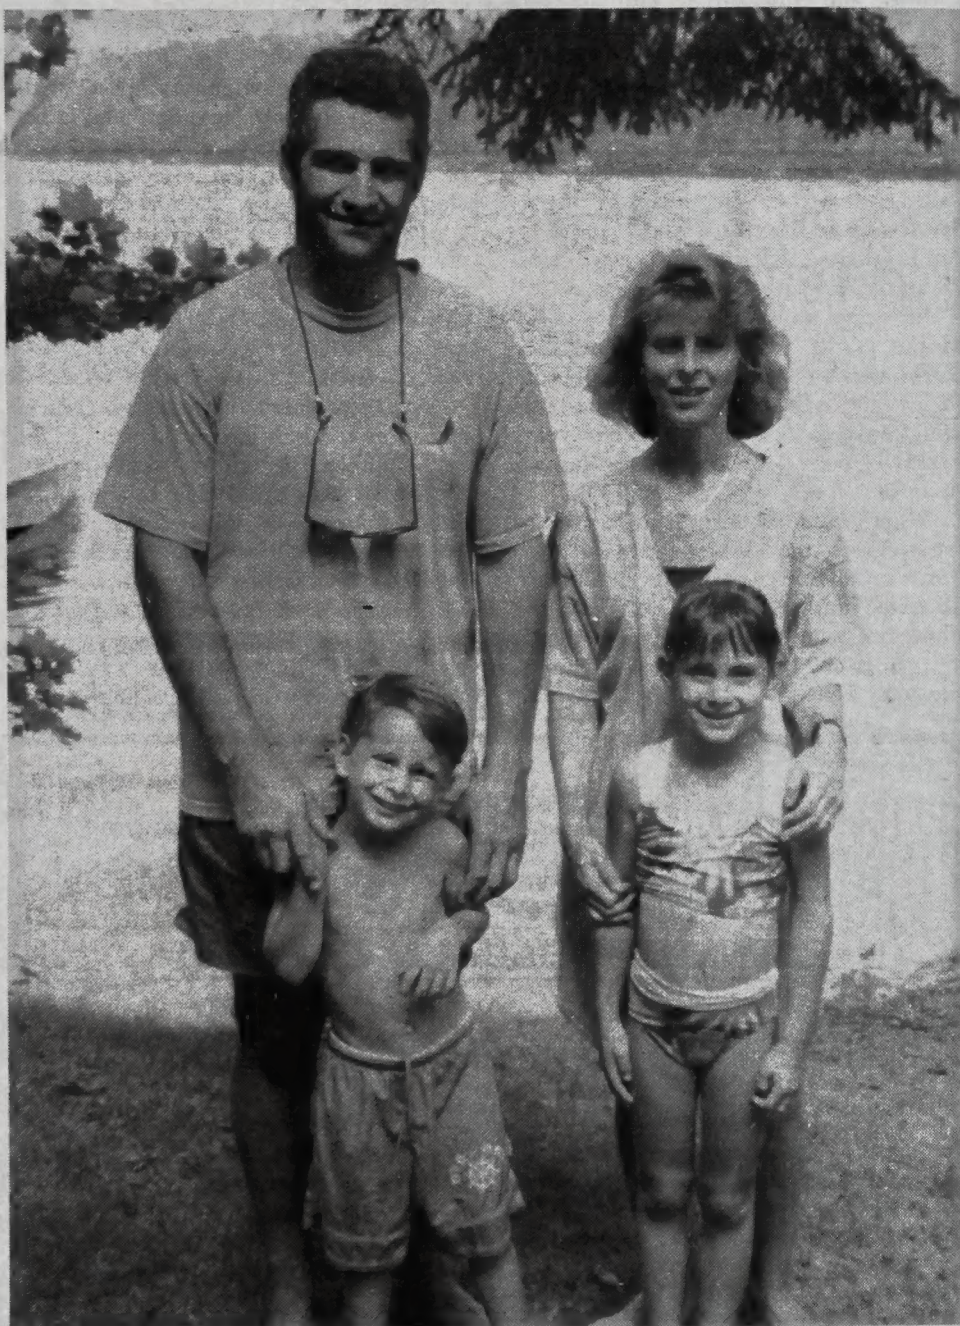

"We didn't necessarily decide to find a place on Boshkung," Basil said, as he sat on the deck overlooking the lake. "It just happened that we found this one and we liked it."

The McRaes will be heading back to St. Louis about the middle of August so Basil can get ready for the 1994-95 hockey season.

Besides, he might need a few weeks to break in the new coach.

Tough guy: Basil McRae has always played an aggressive style of hockey.

Relaxing at the cottage: Basil McRae, his wife Jill and two of their three children, Philip and Alexandra, took time from their summer activities for this family photo at the cottage on Boshkung Lake. Eight month old Abbey was doing what all good infants do at that time of day; having her afternoon nap.

Trout management...

Anglers, tourism businesses are concerned about the impact proposed regulation changes may have on Haliburton County that seems to be very unpopular with many lake trout anglers. But it is even less popular with anyone who sells live bait. Most bait dealers see such a ban as a serious threat to their livelihoods.

"We definitely don't want to put anybody out of business," Haxton said, adding that the ministry wants the regulations to be consistent throughout the entire region.

He pointed out that the regulations would be a real nightmare if they were different from one area to the next.

Harvest management options may be different for lakes which naturally produce large-bodied lake trout than those which produce small-bodied lakereels, however.

"The regulations can be hard enough to read now without complicating matters further," Haxton said.

The process of doing the research to come up with the options that have been presented has been ongoing for three years. MNR officials had hoped to be able to implement the new regulations beginning in January of 1995.

"That target date seems unrealistic at this time," Haxton said. "It's going to be a long process."

Haxton said the public input will be really helpful to ministry officials when the selections have to be made.

The possibility of banning live bait is probably the least favourable to most anglers. Many say that by banning the use of baitfish, the ministry would effectively eliminate winter fishing for lake trout. Jigging with artificial baits is considerably less effective, which would dramatically increase the time an angler would have to spend to catch a fish.

Slot limits, whereby fish of a certain size (generally those within the optimum breeding range) must be released, could do more harm than good if baitfish are used. When minnows are used for bait, the fish tend to take the hooks deeper into the throat. When these fish are unhooked and released, their chances of survival are significantly reduced.

Jon Hill of Minden Live Bait and Tackle suggests the use of barbless hooks as an alternative that would reduce mortality of released fish. Haxton said that the use of barbless hooks is one option that has been considered at which the ministry may have to take a closer look.

Hill also suggests a one fish, one line limit as an alternative to banning the use of baitfish.

Minimum size limits for a period of three years, followed by the appropriate slot limits are another option. But, again, if live bait is used, the mortality rate of released fish could negate any gains.

Closing of the winter fishery for lake trout is yet another option. This one is unlikely to get much support from avid trout anglers. It would mean an open-water season from the third Saturday in May until the end of September — just over four months.

If it is deemed necessary to implement major changes in the lake trout fishing regulations, most anglers would demand enhancement of fishing opportunities for alternate species. Walleye (yellow pickerel) is one species that would be favoured as an alternate for both open water and winter fishing.

There are already several lakes in the Highlands that support a good walleye fishery. The Kashagawigamog - Canning chain of lakes is a good case in point. Haxton said that the ministry won't allow stocking of walleyes in those lakes because they have natural trout populations. But there is the option of enhancing the walleye population by improving spawning beds.

The possibility also exists to stock other lakes that don't harbour natural lake trout populations but are suitable for walleyes. Year-round fishing for rainbow trout and splake is another option the ministry is proposing to offer anglers alternate fishing opportunities.

Ministry officials admit there are no black and white solutions to the declining trout fishery. If you want to have some influence in the final decisions, your opportunity is now.

Stanhope Fun Day more than just fun

The 16th annual Fun Day held at the Stanhope Community Centre Saturday, was more than just fun, it was exciting. Even the dreary weather couldn't keep families from having a good time.

The day was filled with entertainment provided by the Stanhope Line Dancers, the Highland Dancers, the Highland Cloggers, and the Nashville North Western Line Dancers, among others.

Children enjoyed a petting zoo, games, pony rides, and the popular "velcro wall" and more.

Adults participated in tennis, horseshoes and slo-pitch tournaments, then relaxed at "The Nooner" where they could enjoy a chilled beverage and some delicious roast beef.

The Fun Day committee was very pleased with the attendance and expressed its appreciation to all who were involved.

Top Dave Johnson slices some tasty, hot roast beef and is ready to serve another hungry customer.

A great idea

Hats off to Warden Jim McMahon for presenting one of the most reasonable proposals, regarding its pressing need for a new building, that county council has seen in a long time.

The Warden surprised his fellow councillors, as they met in the Minden Community Centre Wednesday, when he suggested they examine the possibility of moving the administrative headquarters just around the corner, to a location on Highway 35.

The council was forced to vacate what has been its tradition council chambers since 1953, when the need for additional staff space became critical last year. The county administration has been going through a major growth spurt over the past few years. Some of that growth is due to increased requirements for its services, such as social assistance. In other cases, it is the result of the provincial government downloading responsibilities to the county level. The county has also been asked to or assumed, rightly so, its responsibility for the co-ordination of services that belong at a regional level. This trend is likely to increase in the future as the value of increased co-ordination becomes evident.

A new building is required to accommodate the changes that have taken place and those anticipated. As well, the commander of the local detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police has endorsed the idea, saying a new building is a natural joint venture which will help keep costs down and ensure that provincial funds spent on rent stay within the county. The county council chambers could also serve the provincial court and other bodies requiring a formal hearing venue.

The Warden hinted at the possibility that other provincial and county based services may wish to lease space in the structure, further reducing the carrying costs of the building. Certainly the financial scenario outlined by the clerk-treasurer appears to make the best possible use of the infrastructure funding without placing a major burden on taxpayers.

As the responsibilities of the county expand, there is no doubt the administration will require increased space. The new building, as proposed by the warden, will provide that. It will also make an important statement about the stability, growth and importance of the county administration.

And finally, a new administration building will provide the council with a meeting chamber which reflects the responsibility we entrust to and expect of the members of county council.

Safety of herbicide questioned

Editor:

In response to last week's public notice that "the Ministry of Transportation intends to apply the herbicide 2,4-D amine for the purpose of selective weed control during the period from July 25 to September 2" along municipal highways, please note the following:

Several pertinent toxicological studies on 2,4-D have revealed significant potential health risks, both short and long-term related to exposure to this questionably "safe" herbicide. 2,4-D is an offspring of the U.S. Centre for Chemical and Biological Warfare in Maryland, conceived during World War II. During the Vietnam War, it teamed up with another phenoxyacetic acid, 2,4,5-T to create Agent Orange, the ominous defoliant which has fortunately been banned. Its weaker but equally suspicious side-kick kills broadleafed plants by imitating one of their hormones. The chemical industry's target has become the environment, where we witness the annual slaughter of things wild and green, unfortunately sacrificing our health in the process.

Some of the symptoms/conditions associated with 2,4-D include nausea, abdominal cramps, diarrhea, persistent headaches, rashes, loss of appetite, blurred or double vision, shortness of breath, peripheral neuropathy, birth defects, miscarriages and genetic damage. It has also demonstrated cancer-promoting activity especially re: non-Hodgkin's lymphoma.

A 1978 National Research Council of Canada (NRC) study concluded that evidence of birth defects and embryotoxic effects, combined with the lack of knowledge about chronic complications, precluded the safety of 2,4-D. The study also noted that repeated use of a herbicide over many years (since 1944) creates a tolerance among targeted plant species, thereby enhancing the weed problem by requiring increased dose rates. Residues of the amine salt of 2,4-D have been measured in soil samples up to 385 days after application and its persistence in water has been measured up to 6 months later. Potential residues of 2,4-DCP (2,4-D's primary breakdown product) in water are also worrisome, since it is much more toxic than 2,4-D.

We can no longer ignore the numerous reports

What does the use of herbicides say about our image

Editor:

Tucked away in your paper last week was a notice from the Ministry of Transportation stating that it intends to start using the herbicide 2,4-D on Highway 35 (from Hawk Lake to the County border), #121 (from #35 to Loon Lake) and #118 (from #35 to the Town of Haliburton) during the period from July 25 to September 2. This will have started by the time this letter has been published. One week's notice seems to be very little time.

2,4-D is a phenoxy herbicide that acts by disrupting the normal function of the cell nucleus and, like a cancer, causes uncontrolled growth and cell division. Normal growth soon ceases and tumours rapidly form. The plant consumes itself.

2,4-D is also known to contain forms of Dioxin which is one of the deadliest toxins on the planet and a known carcinogen that accumulates in fatty animal tissue.

Ontario Hydro has ceased to use this herbicide on roadside rights of way and it has been banned in the U.S. by the National Park Service. 2,4-D has been linked to lymphatic cancer and produces birth defects in pregnant animals. In short, it is not harmless and little is known about the long-term effects. Also, the producers and users of this material have displayed little interest in looking at the effect of accumulations of this herbicide and its breakdown products which are also not harmless.

2,4-D is a cheap means of weed control and I imagine that the province has stockpiles that it needs to get rid of. The Ministry of Transportation claims to be using this herbicide to control high growing clover. Could this not be done easily and quickly with a tractor mounted cutter bar?

Anyone living along the above mentioned highways has the right to request that organic herbicides for the use of plant control not be used on the road allowance adjacent to their property and for 500 feet from their property line.

The contact number for the Ministry of Transportation is (705) 789-2391. I have heard about an Adopt A Highway program, but I have no information about that at present.

I do have some "NO SPRAY" posters left over which anyone can have to post on their property. Call 754-2255.

Haliburton roadsides are becoming quite attractive with the mix of grasses and wildflowers. Do we want to see dead, brown vegetation on our major thoroughfares? What does that say about the natural, clean image that we are trying to promote in an area whose major industry is tourism? Could we not hand cut the clover if it is such a big problem?

Eric Lilius,
R.R.1, Haliburton.

Safety first

Editor:

On page 9 of The Times, dated July 18, 1994, there is a photo of a family trying in-line roller blades. Although it was nice to see a family trying a sport that is rapidly growing, I found the photo very disturbing.

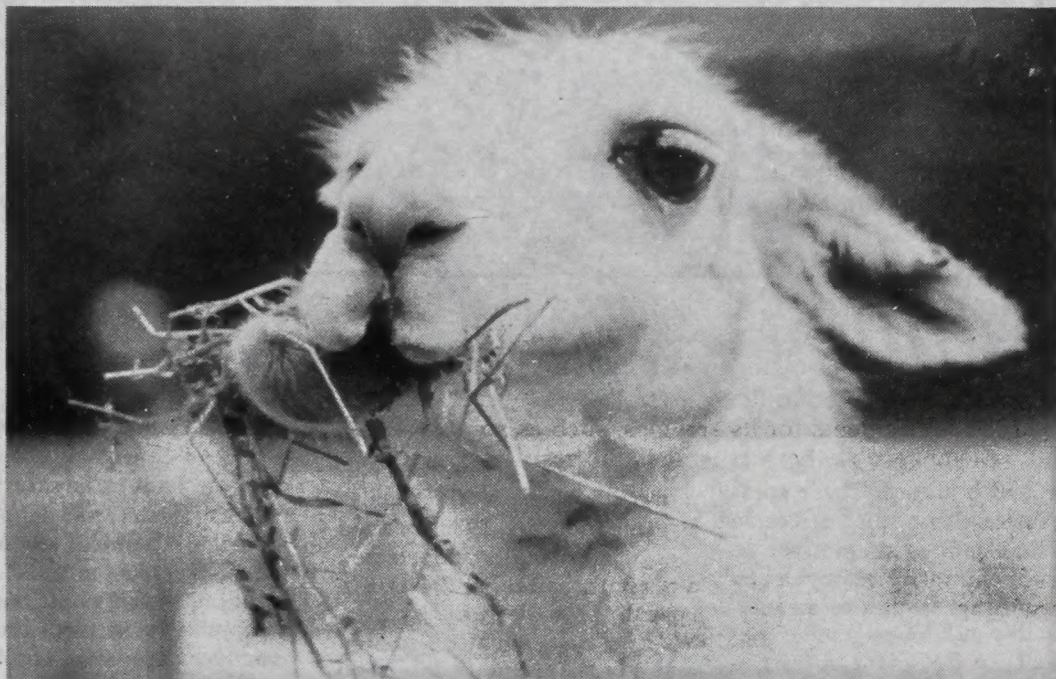

I know that safety equipment is an option in this sport, but feel the need to express my concern. Proper wrist guards, elbow and knee pads, as well as a helmet help prevent serious injuries.

Teaching children to wear such equipment with their first encounter with any sport, will lead to a much safer generation. They will accept it as part of the sport and will be comfortable with it.

My own teenagers have in-line roller blades and put up resistance when I insisted on the proper safety equipment. Then my son took a nasty spill. The result was the helmet had to be replaced. The kid had a slight headache, but nothing more serious.

Please, for the love of our children, encourage the use of the proper protective accessories for any sport, by including them (the accessories) in your photos.

Commuting with bald eagles and killer whales

"We're a broad-minded people. We can accept the fact that a person can be an alcoholic, a dope fiend, a wife beater, and even a newspaperman, but if a man doesn't drive, there's something wrong with him." -Art Buchwald

Buchwald speaks the truth. The phenomenon that separates us from a couple of thousand centuries of forbearers is not television, medical insurance or unlimited access to Tilley hats. It's those buckets of chrome and plastic that sit in our driveways.

Our cars.

Without cars, most of us could not live or work or shop where we do. Canadians don't like to live cheek by jowl, stacked on top of one another the way they do in Hong Kong, Tokyo and Mexico City. We're wide-open-spaces folks. We like room to stretch; breathe a little.

That means mobility. And in Canada that means the automobile.

It also mean commuting. Canadians routinely travel distances to work that would cause a European to question our sanity. According to a recent Statistics Canada study, nine out of ten workers travel a significant distance to get to their jobs, "and most of them by car."

The commuting adventure varies by where you live. Vancouverites spend most time at it, and average of an hour a day getting to and from their jobs. Toronto's right behind at 59 minutes, followed by Montreal at 54 and Winnipeg at 51.

You want to live in a Canadian city but not waste nearly an hour a day on the road? Move to Halifax. Your average Haligonian makes the round trip in 38 minutes.

But 38 minutes or 54 minutes or an hour — any way you clock it, that's a heckuva lot of time to waste, sucking up exhaust fumes and drumming your fingers on the steering wheel.

Just think of the millions of man-hours squandered in rush hour traffic

Black'n White

by Arthur Black jams every working day. Think of the waste of gas. Think of the air pollution. Think of the boredom.

It doesn't have to be that way.

Take my situation. I live 115 kilometres from my office in the city. Getting from here to there and back again eats up five hours of my working day.

Most people think I'm nuts, but I've been doing it for eight years now and I rather like it. I use three different means of travel for variety: I drive, I take the bus, and I walk.

First, I drive from my house to the bus station. This takes 25 minutes and allows me to pass through beautiful rolling countryside. I regularly see deer, red tailed hawks, and the occasional lumbering porcupine. Once I saw a wolf.

At the bus station, I park my car, grab a newspaper and a coffee and settle back to let my Gray Coach driver deal with traffic snarls, black ice, construction slow-downs and sundry four-wheeled maniacs that lurk on the highways and biways. An hour and a half later I arrive at the bus terminal. From there I trudge the city streets for 30 minutes until I'm at the portcullis of Fortress CBC, where I work. At night the routine is reversed.

Why do I like it? I get a half-hour walk, I get to read the paper and sip my coffee and do the crossword puzzle. I get to have a snooze if I feel like it.

Mostly I don't get ulcers and/or heart seizures from having to deal first hand with traffic. The way I would if I was foolish enough to drive the whole distance.

About this time next year my commute will become even more umm....elaborate. I plan to move to an island off the coast of Vancouver, where I'll be working. My commute then will involve a bike ride, a walk, a bus ride and a ferry crossing.

An even longer commute no doubt. But there are compensations.

Any commute that allows you to see bald eagles and killer whales can hardly be long enough.

Banned in some countries

which clearly implicate 2,4-D as a health hazard. These studies suggest that safe, effective and time-proven alternatives do exist or can easily be developed (i.e. cutting) as part of an integrated weed management approach if sufficient foresight, commitment, public demand and political will can be mobilized to do so.

The well-established principle that when in doubt in matters of environmental and health safety, increasing more aware and intelligent people and regulators err on the side of caution, is in dire need of resurrection. Based on internationally-collaborated data, a declaration by the World Health Organization in 1983 banned the use of all chlorinated diphenols, including 2,4-D. An appeal was issued by the W.H.O. to all countries to sign and abide by its established precautionary rules. England, Finland, Sweden, Denmark, most of Europe, some American states, B.C. and Saskatchewan all currently prohibit the use of 2,4-D. Despite the obvious proof of its damaging properties, chemical manufacturers continue to claim that this poison is relatively safe, using the public as guinea pigs in an experiment which is far too costly to let it go any further.

The false and dangerous idea that chemical control is the quickest and most efficient solution, in fact contributes to a cumulative, harmful and ultimately expensive problem, which is something I wish not to bequeath to my children. Please take the time to write or phone the M.O.T. to register your concerns. This type of resistance is a healthy one and bodes well for us all.

Tennis anyone?: Refurbished Minden courts officially open and ready for players of all ages

by Jerry Grozelle

The new tennis court in Minden was officially opened Friday. Infrastructure funding paid for two thirds of the $19,000 project. The municipality's share was $6,500, of which $4,500 was donated by the Legion, Lions Club, Kinettes and others, leaving the actual cost to Anson, Hindon and Minden taxpayers at about $2,000.

Several people turned out for the opening ceremonies. AHM Deputy-Reeve and Vice-Chairperson of the Minden Parks Committee Lewis Stevens, delivered a speech prepared by parks Committee Chairperson Jim Davis, who was unable to attend the opening.

"The Parks Committee and Council, over the years, have received complaints about the condition of our courts. However, it is very difficult to recommend and substantiate the spending of thousands of dollars to service what will only benefit a small percentage in the community; a dilemma facing many municipalities during these times of economic restraint."

Jack Richardson will be assisting with the provision of tennis lessons to the public. Davis says it is hoped that the availability of lessons will encourage more enthusiasm for and participation in the sport and utilization of the facility.

"There are many people I wish to thank for making this possible: Tom Prentice and Sons trucking, Rosedale Paving, Anson, Hindon and Minden Council, the members of the Parks Committee and the Municipal Staff," Davis' statement reads.

Stevens then cut the ribbon to officially open the courts.

"We're hoping a tennis club will be formed," said AHM Reeve Bern Berry.

He added that he hoped the users of the facility would take the responsibility for running it and making it available to everybody.

"We at the municipality don't know anything about running a tennis club," Berry said. We want to let the people who will be using it run it."

Berry admits that it may take a while, but he is optimistic that "it will evolve into a good club that will offer fun and enjoyment for all age groups."

The facility is already booked for Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 8 to 11 o'clock. It will be for adults and seniors doubles play for the first two hours and the last hour will be reserved for those who would like to learn more about the game and hone their skills. Richardson will be co-ordinating the instruction. He says people at all levels of ability are welcome.

Richardson added that he will try to encourage some youth participation and if response warrants, he will arrange lessons for youngsters as well.

He is also in favour of the formation of a Minden Tennis Club.

"There has to be some form of control over the use of the courts," he said. "We want to make sure that everyone has access on an equitable basis."

Anyone interested in helping to get a tennis club formed should contact the township office at 286-1260.

Top form: Jack Richardson returns one on the backhand following the official opening of the Minden Tennis Courts Friday. He and John Wachmuth were the first to try out the new courts after the opening ceremonies.

Peewees back in winning form

by Jerry Grozelle

A recent three-game losing slide came to an end for Minden's Regal Capital Group Royals peewee B #3 hardball team. The RCG squad rebounded with two wins in a row, recovering from the setback and boosting the team's record to 11 wins and six losses, with one game left before the season-ending tournament this past weekend.

The game that ended the longest drought of the season for the Minden boys was on July 17 in Minden against Bobcaygeon. The Royals had to work for the 10-8 win.

Trailing 8-5 going into the bottom of the last inning, the Minden boys gave their coach Larry McKnight reason to be proud. They scored the maximum allowable runs to overcome a three-run deficit and turn an impending fourth consecutive loss into a hard-earned victory.

The visiting Bobcaygeon team jumped into the lead with four runs in the first frame.

Minden replied with two runs in the home half of the inning.

The second inning saw Bobcaygeon add one run for a 5-2 advantage. Shawn Martin helped to close the gap by hitting a home run with one on in his first turn in the batter's box.

Three more runs were added to Bobcaygeon's side of the scoreboard in the third with one reply from the home side. At the end of three the Royals trailed 8-5.

It looked like the visitors might grab the victory after a scoreless fourth frame. But a successful run-down between third baseman Adam Payne and catcher Shawn Casey took away Bobcaygeon's biggest threat of the inning. That play seemed to spark a new life in the Minden boys that had been missing in the previous three games.

"That run-down was a real confidence builder," coach McKnight said.

Jonathan Swinson took over on the mound for the Royals for the fifth (and final) inning. He pitched a flawless frame -- three up, and three down.

Four runs in one inning is a tall order, but the Minden boys scored six (only five of which counted because of the mercy rule -- Payne's only run of the game didn't make it into the scorebook), to pull the game out of the fire.

Jarrett Aggett crossed the plate three times in the winning effort. Gary Kernohan and Shawn Martin added two runs apiece to the Minden score, with single runs going to Andrew Graham, Swinson and Darren Gilbert.

Along with Swinson's shutout inning, Gilbert held Bobcaygeon off the scoreboard in the fourth, with some help from the infield. Kernohan came up with a good pitching effort in the second inning.

The next day, the Royals went to Cambray and trounced their hosts 17-3.

"It was no contest," McKnight said. "We slaughtered them."

The game was abbreviated to four innings because of time constraints. Minden got off to a slow start, with just two runs in the first frame. But the mercy rule came into effect in each of the next three as the visitors launched a 15-run assault.

Combined with the powerful offense, the Minden pitchers helped make the game a no-contest affair. Gilbert was the starter, hurling a no-hitter in the opening frame. Aggett came in for the second, giving up two runs. Swinson allowed one run in the third but shut Cambray down for the last inning.

Martin, Kernohan and Casey scored three runs apiece for the RCG crew. Gilbert and Jordash Osinchuck added a pair each and single markers were notched by Payne, Swinson, Graham and Aggett.

The wrap-up tournament for the peewee B division was scheduled for Saturday in Coboconk.

Tyke coach happy with his team's "impressive season"

The Minden Royals tyke baseball team ended the season on a winning note, defeating Cameron 11-7 on July 17 in Cameron.

Four Minden players scored two runs apiece in the winning effort. Matt Mattsson notched a pair and he also drove in three. Derek Barnett had two RBIs to go along with his two runs. He also pitched a strong first inning for the Royals. Gregory Harrisin contributed two runs as well as two stolen bases and Kent Greer had two RBIs, two runs scored and he pitched a three up and three down third inning.

Ben Carpenter, Joey Rayment and Jordash Schuitemaker added one run apiece to Minden's tally.

The tykes weren't so fortunate when they played in the championship tournament. They ran into some stiff competition from Bobcaygeon and Fenelon Falls, losing both games.

The game against Bobcaygeon ended in an 8-3 loss for the Minden boys.

Jamie Colliss and Greg Harrison each had three stolen bases in the game. Colliss stole home once.

Kent Greer recorded three strikeouts in the third inning of the game. He also scored one run.

The tournament's second game for the Minden boys saw them battle back to within two runs after falling behind 8-2 to Fenelon Falls.

Coach Derek Barnett Sr. said he was very impressed with his team's determination and spirit in that game.

Some of the highlights for the Royals included Derek Barnett Junior's double, triple and three stolen bases; Kent Greer's two RBIs and two stolen bases; Joey Rayment's two stolen bases and one run scored; Philip Greer's three up and three down pitching in the second frame; Greg Harrison's two stolen bases and one run scored; and Ashley Pettes stealing home and hitting a double.

"I have been very impressed with the team all year," coach Barnett said. "I'd like to wish the kids good luck for next year. They are a great bunch of kids."

colder winter weather, it still poses a potential threat. Clarke said any boats being removed from zebra mussel infested waters should either be allowed to dry in the sun for up to five days or cleaned off with a high pressure (250 psi) spray, to dislodge any attached eggs etc. Boaters should also be careful to ensure that water trapped in bilges, outboard cooling systems, or bait buckets and live wells be cleaned out before entering uninfested water.

Politicians

The Canning Lake association invited those candidates who have already declared their intention of running in the upcoming municipal election to address the meeting. Since the lake is in the municipalities of Anson, Hindon and Minden and Snowdon, the meeting heard from candidates from both jurisdictions.

Candidate for reeve, Bern Berry, deputy reeve, Lewis Stevens and council Gerry Rome, were in attendance from Minden, while candidates for reeve in Snowdon, incumbent George Simmons and Russ Duhaime and Snowdon council candidate Ray Lymer addressed the meeting.

Lymer noted he was a member of the Canning Lake Association and had now become a permanent resident on the lake. He told the meeting his main concern is the high level of education tax which seasonal residents are being asked to carry.

Snowdon Reeve George Simmons said the township faces a number of serious problems in the coming years. He said there is a need to improve the landfill facilities to meet the new regulation of the Ministry of Environment. He said the council had recently concluded a transaction to purchase the property adjacent to the Lochlin landfill site to extend the life of that facility.

He predicted that residents of the township would be facing increases in taxes in the coming year to redress what he described as "years of neglect". He urged the members of the association to be active and concerned about the future of the municipality.

The challenger for the position of reeve, Russ Duhaime, told the meeting he is running because of what he feels is a need for "positive action" at the municipal level. He noted the taxes in Snowdon township have almost doubled in the past eight years, much of that due to the downloading of programs from the provincial government. Duhaime claimed it will be necessary to spend up to $150,000 to extend the life of the Lochlin land-fill site. He called for greater cooperation at the county level and suggested the role of the county should be increased and that single townships like Snowdon, should give serious consideration to amalgamation. "However, before we can convince other townships of the benefits of amalgamation, we must get our own house in order." Duhaime said there is a need for long-term planning and participation in county-wide initiatives. "When we become active partners in county affairs...when our financial standing becomes more solid...then we will be in a position to begin serious discussions about amalgamation," he said.

(more on page 17)

Despite the rainy weather, which forced most people to seek shelter, the Canning Lake Property Owners Association meeting was well attended. The members heard from area politicians who are seeking office in the upcoming municipal elections.

Association business

In other matters, the meeting was told that 210, or about 90% of the property owners on the lake are members of the association.

The scholarships which the association has donated to high school students over the years will change after this year's presentation. President Ross Rigney told the meeting that in keeping with the aims of the association, a bursary will now be presented annually to a graduating student continuing his or her education in environmental studies. The recipients of the awards this year are Sarah Levis for excellence in grade nine advanced English and Todd Hoare for excellence in grade nine history. It was pointed out that Canning Lake Association is the only one in the county to provide a high school bursary.

One member of the association reported that police might be more willing to respond to complaints about errant boaters if the perpetrator was video taped in the act. He suggested that if cottage owners see a boat being driven irresponsibly, they should capture the behavior on tape, providing a voice over commentary as well. He said it is helpful in laying charges or issuing a warning, if the boat number and identification of the driver can be established by use of the tape.

Members were reminded of the Fred Jones Bass Award, an annual cash reward for the biggest bass caught up to the date of the association's annual Fun Day, scheduled this year for July 30. The president said the prize hasn't been claimed in the past few years. Anglers wishing to register their catch can do so at the Riddell property # 84.

Officers elected

President Ross Rigney paid tribute to a number of retiring members of the association's board of directors. In particular he mentioned that Bill Riddell had been an inspiration to the association. "A perennial member of the board, he was always a man with great ideas," Ross commented. Others thanked for their contributions were Ian Tingey, Ralph Winfield, Larry Anweiler and Blair Heslop.

While there are still a number of openings for directors representing some of the major roads leading to the lake, the following executive was elected for the coming year: president Ross Rigney; secretary Dave Whalen; treasurer Irving Green; and directors Jack Ballantyne, Larry Bebensee, Milt Endicott, Gary Ford, Rolly Wagg, Lois Rigney, George Wright, Mark Hodder, Paul Kitchen, Michael Mitchell, Mary McCrae, Reg Smith, Larry Wilkins, Helen Shewchuk and June Jefford.

Fun day enjoyed at Horseshoe

Once again there was a good turn out at the Horseshoe Lake Property Owners' Association annual family picnic. It was held July 16 at the lake side property of Joe Van Dinther. The children and adult games were enjoyed by all. Refreshments were served later in the day.

The family picnic was supported by a number of local merchants who donated prizes. Thanks to Minden I.D.A. Drug Store, Dollo's IGA, Mr. D's Donuts and Dave's on 35. Thanks as well to Robin Hood Multi Foods, Discovery Toys and Proctor and Gamble for their contributions to the picnic.

The winners of the children's races, in the order of finish, were:

'Project Purple' week August 1-7

OFAH calls for concerted effort against loosestrife

In the first coordinated effort of its kind, the first week of August has been dubbed "Project Purple Week" by the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters (OFAH) in an effort to stem the advance of the wetland killer, purple loosestrife.

The OFAH is calling on every available hand in the province to launch local control efforts on the deadly perennial plant the week of August 1-7. Traditionally, the plant is in full bloom during this week and is getting ready to set off mature seeds. Each plant produces approximately 2.7 million seeds each year, which travel to nearby wetlands to choke off invaluable fish and wildlife habitat.

Purple loosestrife (Lythrum salicaria) came to North America more than a century ago from its native Europe, but only in the past decade has its bright fuchsia blooms begun to spread like wildfire across the province.

In Canada, the plant has no natural enemies and its massive root systems and woody stems make it a mighty competitor, bumping aside all native vegetation that serves as food and shelter for thousands of fish, wildlife and insect species. As a result, once-thriving wetlands choked by loosestrife, become vast fields of silent, dead purple. Each year, North America loses hundreds of thousands of wetland hectares to the loosestrife plague — this, in light of the fact that many populated areas saw much of their wetlands destroyed by development after the turn of the century.

But there is hope. In 1992, the OFAH launched "Project Purple" an educational and research program to show people how to control the plant and avoid its spread.

And for the first year, the call is out from August 1 to 7 for individuals, groups and municipalities to mount concerted eradication efforts. In the past, many organizations have made a pleasurable day out of loosestrife control efforts, which included recreational events or a picnic or barbecue.

The OFHA has also renewed its call to Ontario municipalities to declare the plant noxious under the Ontario Weed Control Act. Over the past years, more than 70 municipalities - including Metropolitan Toronto - have taken this step, promoting the plant's control.

In addition, many nurseries have stopped selling the plant for home gardens, a problem which was compounding loosestrife's spread.

"For three years, the OFHA has waged war against purple loosestrife and there are many positive signs," said Dr. Terry Quinney, OFHA provincial coordinator of fish and wildlife services. "But we need every available hand at the most important time of the year if we are to make a real difference."

But the plant must be controlled carefully, or more harm than good can be done. For more information on loosestrife and how to control it, call the Invading Species Hotline at 1-800-563-7711. Organizations that do mount control efforts are asked to call the Hotline to register their efforts.

Project Purple is a program of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters, with support from The Environmental Youth Corps, Weed Man, the Shell Environmental Fund, Guelph University, Nipissing University, the North Bay-Mattawa and Mattagami Conservation Authorities and the North Bay and Timmins offices of the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources.

The OFAH, which has 70,000 individual members and 490 member clubs, won one of the country's top conservation awards in 1993 for its Invading Species Program.

Terry Fox Run officials seek organizers for Minden area

Officials of the Terry Fox Foundation are looking for someone in Minden to organize a Terry Fox Run in this area.

Pair charged

Minden OPP officers were called to a Wilberforce area residence in the early morning hours of July 17 to investigate two stabbings.

Karen Gail McMullen, 40, of Wilberforce has been charged with the attempted murder of Marcus Boehm, 34, of Oshawa, following the incident at about 12:45 a.m. McMullen's bail hearing was last Thursday in Lindsay. She was released on a $5,000 assurety.

Boehm has also been charged with attempted murder of Steven Scott, 17, of Wilberforce, who also suffered stab wounds. Scott is the son of McMullen. He was taken to Haliburton Hospital where he was treated and released.

Boehm was transported by ambulance to Toronto, where he was treated at the intensive care unit of St. Michael's Hospital. He was released from hospital Thursday and taken into custody at the Lindsay Jail. His bail hearing was slated for Friday.

Preliminary hearing dates for the two people charged had not been set by Friday afternoon. The investigation continues.

The 14th annual Terry Fox Run, a Canada-wide fund-raising event for cancer research, will take place in mid-September.

"We look to the people of Ontario to continue the dream Terry Fox started in the summer of 1980," Foundation officials state in a press release. "The Terry Fox Foundation Office is seeking an individual, family or group in Minden to organize a Terry Fox Run on Sunday, September 18. Despite the name of the event, the Run is not competitive -- we encourage families to participate by walking, riding, biking, wheeling or jogging."

More than $136-million has been raised for cancer research since Terry Fox began his cross-Canada run in 1980. Terry's legacy has contributed to the impressive advances made in cancer research. Noted researchers have stated that there has been more progress made in cancer research in the past decade than in the previous millennium. Money raised by the Terry Fox run account for about 25 per cent of all funds distributed by the National Cancer Institute, so continued support is more important than ever.

"If you believe, like Terry, that you can make a difference in the battle to defeat cancer, please call 1-800-387-1200 for information about how to get involved in the 1994 Terry Fox Run.

Thanks to Ruth Still and her Rhubarb Festival committee, the second annual Eagle Lake Rhubarb Festival was another great success.

Although it took a while for the games and entertainment to get underway, the day was a complete success.

Many young children and their parents came out to enjoy the day of music, games, rides, sunshine, and, as promised, rhubarb. The only disappointing aspect of the day was that entertainer "Ish" was unable to attend the festival. Other than that a good time was had by all.

Norland Old West Weekend organizers will welcome some new helpers for 1995 event

Eight people have stepped forward to help out on the organizing committee after the second annual Norland Old West Weekend July 15 to 17.

The event was a fund-raiser for the Victoria-Haliburton Children's Aid. The final tally isn't in yet, but organizers estimate a profit of about $1,000.

The weekend featured games, contests, helicopter rides, vendors in the community centre, an antique car parade, horseshoe pitching, live entertainment and a variety of other events for the whole family.

The event got off to a good start with the Laura Mattsson concert and the Karaoke contest on Friday evening.

Results of some of the contests are as follows:

BIKINI CONTESTS

The bikini contest has traditionally been a crowd-pleaser. This year, the bikini contest was divided into two categories — teenage and women's.

Sarah Clarke was the first place contestant in the teenage category. Hollie Smith was second and third went to Tonya Chinn.

Michelle Butler won first prize in the women's division, which earned her a $250 cash prize. Nikki Walden was second and Heather Nenych placed third.

BEST BUNS

This year, for the first time, the men were given the opportunity to strut their stuff, vying for top honours in the men's best buns contest.

The panel of judges chose Dani Clarke as the first place winner. Larry Guest was second and third went to Vaughan Richardson.

TODDLERS' SWIMWEAR

Sarah Veness was the grand prize winner in the toddlers' swimwear contest. A first place girl and boy were also chosen. Carin Yeo was first among the girls and Nicholas Miller was the first place boy.

KIDS BEST WESTERN DRESSED

Eleni Papatheodorou and Magen Davidson tied for first place in the girls' four to six age group. Matthew Lytle was first in the same age group for boys.

Alana Austin won first place in the girls' seven to 12 age group and Willie Meecham was the first place boy in that division.

BEST WESTERN DRESSED DOG

Wrinkles, owned by Dawn Gostlin, was the winner of the best western dressed dog competition. Second place went to Mindy, owned by Brandy Watson.

AIR RIFLE SHOOTING

First place in the kids' air rifle shooting contest went to Carl Baldwin. James Cameron was second.

The adult division air rifle shooting contest was won by Rick Watson. Dean Grozelle was second.

ADULT TALENT CONTEST

PHOTO CONTEST

CRAFT CONTEST

First place in the craft contest was won by Debi Purvis. Second went to Tammy Dingman.

KNITTING CRAFT CONTEST

Marianne Sargent was the first place winner in the knitting craft contest. Ruth Angiers came in second.

Best Western Dressed: Diane Austin, one of the organizers of Norland's Old West Weekend, talks with Eleni Papatheodorou and Magen Davidson. The two girls tied for first in the girls' best western dressed contest for the four to six age group.

Fun for everyone at Old West Weekend

The stage at Norland's Old West Weekend was a popular place from July 15 to 17, but never more so than the Sunday afternoon. That's when the women's bikini contest and the men's best buns contests were held.

Dani Clarke captured the hearts of the judges in the men's best buns contest. Larry Guest was second and Vaughan Richardson placed third.

Both contests drew nine participants.

Calling your Bluffle: A new game tests your skill for making up stories

Do you know who George Nissen is? How about Chester Greenwood? If you don't have a clue, which most of you probably won't, then you are a perfect candidate for Canada's newest game Bluffle.

This game in a book was invented, researched and produced by Moose Lake cottagers Carolynne Veffler and Wendy Thomas. The game is a Balderdash/Slang Teasers-type game and is based on the autobiographies of people who are famous for interesting reasons, such as; the inventor of the toilet, or the first Avon lady. The object of the game is to trick the other players by making up an outrageous claim to fame and having your opponents believe the autobiography you made up is the correct one.

The idea came to the women one evening in 1991 when they were together for dinner. Veffler had been reading a book by P.G. Woodhouse at the time and wondered what he was like as a person. Thomas remembered something different or unusual about his past and together they looked Woodhouse up in an autobiographical dictionary. They read about his interesting background and looked into the backgrounds of other famous people. After looking at two or three different autobiographies they thought it would be a perfect game to play at the cottage.

"We knew this was a good idea, but was it going to be an idea we would tell people about for the rest of our lives, or would we actually do something about it? So we decided to do some independent research and see what we could come up with," said Veffler.

The two started researching at the library, buying books, talking to people about anyone who has an interesting claim-to-fame.

"At that time we were thinking of a game like Balderdash or Slang Teasers. The trivia aspect of it was a great appeal. We had discussions about how we were going to present this game. Especially how we were going to categorize it. And that took hours and hours of our time just thinking about who would go in what category," said Thomas.

The women wanted to try their game out on some of their friends and family, and eventu-

WHO DO YOU TRUST? Moose Lake cottage owners Carolynne Veffler and Wendy Thomas have invented a new game called Bluffle. The idea is to determine which participant is revealing the true background of the inventor or innovator. The catch is, the invention is often better known than the name of the inventor, so the players have an opportunity to do a little invention of their own as they try to convince the others that their story is the correct one.

ally set a deadline for the final research to be finished. They spoke to people who had invented games and found out about the trials and tribulations of inventing such a game. They went to seminars and gathered material about owning a small business.

Eventually, with thumbs-up support from friends and family, Veffor and Thomas set out to find someone who would market the game. One games' agent talked about buying the game for over a year. They gave up that particular agent and set out to find another. In the meantime, Veffor was desperately thinking of ways to make the game less expensive. Then the idea of making the game into a book came to her.

"When I thought of a book, I knew right from the beginning that it would work, but Wendy had her doubts. After a couple of days, though, she gave in and thought it was a really good idea. It is possible to play the game with any type of board, and having just a book instead of a whole box of pieces makes it a lot easier to carry around," said Veffor.

They finally found a publisher willing to handle the game at an affordable price--for a small percentage. Christie and Christie, a small publishing company in Cookstown, took on the game hoping it would be a great investment.

"(Christie and Christie) was made for us and we were made for them. They were such easy-going people and the contract wasn't binding to anybody. They weren't prejudiced about representing us because we didn't have a big name," said Veffor.

The books were released in late June and it has yet to be established how many have been sold. Under Cover Books in Haliburton is one of the outlets featuring the book. The price? Just $13.95.

By the way, George Nissen invented the trampoline in 1936 and Chester Greenwood invented ear muffs in 1863.

Dance raises $2700 for hospitals

The Re-Max Haliburton Highlands Realty Limited had its first annual Miracle Dance July 9. The event was held to raise money for the Haliburton County Hospital Fund and the Children's Miracle Network, which benefits Sick Kids in Toronto.

About 300 people attended and danced the night away, enjoying the refreshments and the sounds of the band Summerwind, to help raise funds for the organizations.

Thirty-six door prizes were donated by local merchants, with a grand prize of a hot air balloon ride for two donated by Re-Max.

Last Friday Re-Max presented a check for $2,766.15 to Haliburton Rotary Club member Hugh Nichol, who accepted the check on behalf of the Hospital Fund and the Miracle Network.

"Plans are being made for next year's dance and we are hoping to raise about $5,000 next time," said Vince Duchene.

People Who Make a Difference

No challenge is too big or too small for Pat Simiana

-by Kelly Pettinger-

Most people would spend their retirement relaxing, taking it easy, and making the most out of life, by taking part in social activities, but retiree Pat Simiana feels her work has just begun.

For 23 years it was Simiana's job to serve the public, now she feels it is her time to help serve her community — Wilberforce. Not only does she help out in a big way by being treasurer of the Wilberforce and Area Police Volunteer Association, but she is also religiously involved with the Literacy program and the Wilberforce Heritage Guild. Helping and serving people have always been a major part of her life.

For years Simiana worked as a public servant in Toronto, for the government of Ontario. In the later '70's, she found there were too many changes being made in her line of work. Changes with which she didn't necessarily agree.

"When I started, my job was more or less stable, and would be for a long time. I really felt that I had a job for life. We had all of the great benefits and no problems to deal with. Then things started to change. Suddenly we got the feeling that while we had a job, it wasn't as secure as it had once been. Changes were being made so drastically. A 'public servant' can be defined in many ways, but that is exactly what we were hired to do, serve the public, and that changed. I was there to help people, and new people coming in had a different approach. So my girlfriend, who worked with me at the office in Toronto, and I, took an early retirement and came here," said Simiana.

She first came to the Highlands area for a holiday with her two children, James and David, in 1967. Even though she had years before she could even think of retirement, she knew she would retire somewhere in the Highlands.

"I just loved it here and I wanted to come back. I thought that the Highlands was the best place to be in the province. I had never really been many places, so I didn't have much to base it on, but it just felt good to me. So I made up my mind at that point that I was going to retire here," she said.

In 1980 Simiana bought a cottage just outside the village with her girlfriend Gail and as an escape from the city, they started coming up as much as they possibly could. In 1988 they both received an early retirement plan and said, "This is it. Let's get out of here."

She has been living here on a permanent basis ever since "I enjoy it up here, but I can't actually say that I have retired because I don't have many free days. I'm just busy, busy, busy," said Simiana.

Busy is an understatement. Since 1991, Simiana has been heavily involved with the Heritage Guild. Presently their main project is to fully restore the first Red Cross Outpost Hospital in Ontario, which was located in Wilberforce. Simiana has accepted the job of researching material and collecting artifacts. Her job is almost complete.

"There are a few things I have to do before I'm finished. Right now I'm trying to organize a doctor's bag from the 1920's that was donated to us. There are also papers from the Schofield family, who started the hospital years ago, needed sorting. I've been preserving some of them, and displaying others," she said.

Recently she travelled to Ottawa to the Red Cross headquarters to research details on the Wilberforce Red Cross Hospital. "We searched through mounds and mounds of papers. We selected what was relevant to Wilberforce, and that proved very interesting. Right now we are completing the nurse's room," said Simiana.

Big tasks are a major part of Simiana's vocabulary. She has one volunteer job she finds particularly heart-warming and satisfying. As a member of the Literacy Program, she feels that no one who has problems reading should be too timid to ask for help from someone else. "If (reading) is going to make the quality of their lives better, and it almost always will, then perhaps I can help out," she said.

Simiana has helped several people learn to read. Presently she has a client in her own age group who is progressing with ease. "It feels great to see them advance so quickly. My client is on her third certificate. She feels like she's in seventh heaven, which makes me feel even higher. It's a pleasure for me to do this because I think people miss a lot if they can't read and comprehend what they are reading. Anyone can just look at words, but if they don't understand what the words mean, it just doesn't work," she said.

Even though she is busy with the Guild and the Literacy Program, Simiana still finds time to be treasurer of the Wilberforce Community Policing Association.

Last October, Simiana and other members of the community formed the association to help keep their neighbourhood safe. They heard about the Neighbourhood Watch in other small towns and they wanted to get a similar program started in Wilberforce.

"Being in a community such as this one, it sometimes difficult to get immediate assistance from the OPP. With their cutbacks, they have been short staffed. They need all help that can be given. Our community felt that it was time to get something started," said Simiana.

The association has volunteers who patrol the community in their vehicles between 10 p.m. and 1 a.m. The association also helps the OPP in emergency situations.

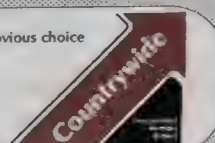

Recently the volunteers helped the police the search for a nine-year-old girl who was missing in the area. Thanks to everyone's help she is found safe and sound. They also helped the OPP with the search for Kurt Jennerich. Simiana helped out by cooking meals for the police and volunteers.

... the obvious choice

Simiana wants to help her community

"Rather than having the police and volunteers go to a restaurant and try to get a meal they might not be able to finish if they get called out, we thought we could cook some food and bring it to the headquarters at the medical building so everybody could be in the same place at the same time, and nobody would have to worry about having to eat and run," she said.

When asked if she was frightened when the search was taking place for Jennerich, Simiana replied, "It was scary to a degree, because of the uncertainty of what this man might actually do if he were to be confronted. This area has so many senior citizens and they don't come up here for that kind of thing. A lot of them have cottages, and this is where they come for peace and quiet. They don't want to come up here and worry that some man might be hiding in their cottage. That was my biggest concern. I wanted everybody to feel safe," she said.

Feeling safe is something Simiana does not have to worry about. She has four dogs, two she saved from being abused, another, an abandoned puppy found by her son, and the other she is baby-sitting for about a month.

She also has a bird, and a cat she saved from freezing to death. "One night, the coldest night in winter, we could hear something under the porch. We weren't sure what it was, but we didn't want it to freeze. We found the cat under there, just shivering and shaking and probably half-dead. I took her in and tried for three months to find the owner, but nobody came to get it. The only pet I have bought is my pet bird. The others came in by chance," laughs Simiana.

Simiana had, when she first came to Wilberforce, tried to find employment with the County. After submitting an application, she received a reply saying that she was over-qualified for the job.

"How somebody can be over-qualified is beyond me. But I didn't pursue it because I'm getting my pension and that keeps me comfortable. I don't have problems in that area. I guess I'm pretty lucky," she said.

Simiana says she loves a challenge, and faced a few of her own. "They haven't been extraordinary but I think the first challenge I ever had was raising my two children on my own. That was in the '60's and I was separated from my husband. We never actually divorced until the '70's, but I was on my own. It was a difficult time, but I have to say that my boys grew up quite well. I never really had any serious problems with them, and I was always honest with them. My oldest son James is a Captain in the Air Force, and he is a General's Aide up in Yellowknife. My other son David lives in Bancroft, but works in Wilberforce so that's nice," said Simiana.

What is really nice about it? "I get to see my granddaughters quite frequently. I like that," said Simiana.

Great entertainment line up for Rotary Carnival

This year the Minden Rotary Summer Carnival will have some new and exciting acts for all ages.

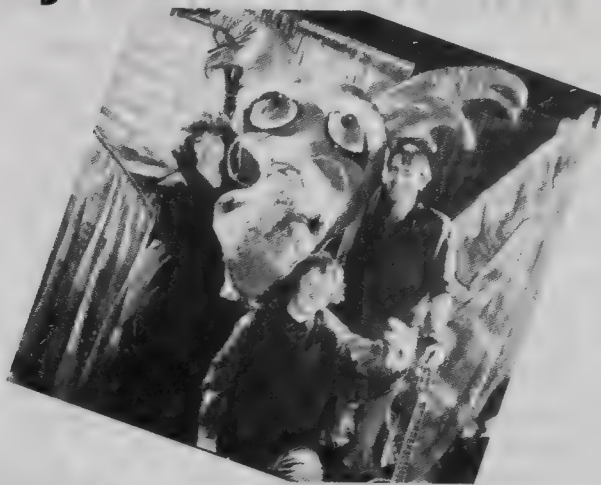

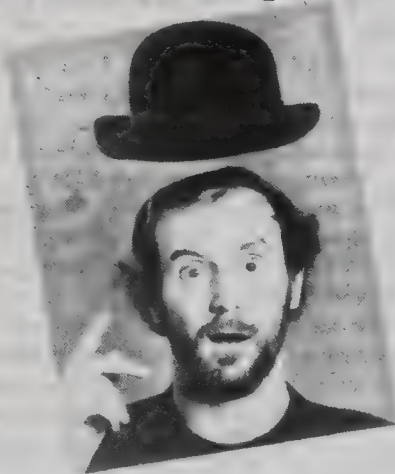

C o m i c
Johnny Toronto promises to keep kids of all ages in stitches with his juggling act. The Purple Dragon Puppet Troupe (as seen at Hyland Crest in a Christmas performance, 1992) will amaze everyone with a brand new show starring, of course, the big purple dragon.

The Times Four saxophone quartet and the Northland Brass Quintet will be performing during the early evening. CHACE staff will also be there with their CHACE Mobile for parents and children to visit..

Tara Lowe, who is chairing, this year's event promises the carnival will be fun for the whole family. "In past years there wasn't much for the preschool aged children to do. But this year we have Polka Dot Door's Polkaroo there to entertain the smaller kids. We will hopefully have a ball room for the kids to play in and clowns from Special Effects will be there handing out balloons," said Lowe.

"Admission is free; we have free ice cream, free books and free entertainment. The games are inexpensive, but the prizes aren't cheap ones that will break as soon as you get them home. For the past three years the Rotary club has not made any money from the carnival. Instead of trying to turn it into a huge fund-raiser, we decided to donate any money we make back to the community. The event usually pays for itself. This carnival is for the community to enjoy," said Lowe.

The carnival will have the usual attractions, such as the Crown and Anchor wheels, children's games, a roast beef on a bun meal, as well as hot dogs and pizza, and, of course, the midway. The carnival starts at 5:00 p.m. on Wednesday, at the Community Centre in Minden.

Johnny Toronto, The Purple Dragon Puppet Troupe and TVO's Polkaroo will be in attendance at the carnival.

Waste continues to confound

By John Huke, Reeve,
Somerville Township

During the past two months I have had the opportunity to attend cottage association and ratepayer meetings in Somerville Township. Taxes are naturally always a concern as are road paving and dust control. Surprisingly enough, the most troublesome topic, without exception, is waste management.

The public in general is willing to accept the fact that we must change our ways of waste diversion in order to protect the environment. Paying tipping fees at the landfill site, and garbage along the backroads and discarded in the farm fields and wood lots have contributed to the amount of frustration. Compound this with the ongoing thousands of dollars being spent in attempting to find one landfill site for the entire County of Victoria and you truly create a "monster" for elected officials.

In Victoria County the landfill sites were taken over by the county four years ago with a promise that the townships would not incur added costs. Unfortunately, the costs have risen dramatically with no light at the end of the tunnel. The municipalities in the northern portion of the county, which were not involved in recycling, have agreed to begin in 1995; with the stipulation that we control the cost and management of each operation. The county, when taking on the Waste Management Master Plan, is partially funded by the province, also accepted a target of 50% diversion by the year 2000. Unfortunately the legal procedures are very costly and frustrating to the public and your elected representatives, with little or no deviation allowed.

Parry Sound and Peterborough County have just recently scrapped their plans. The next few months will prove most interesting for Victoria County as the Waste Management Committee and Public Advisory Committee wrestle with the Five Committees formed to fight the "short List" of five landfill sites. One must be chosen or we begin the exercise once again; the alternative is to follow the path of Peterborough County and wait for a new Provincial government. Hopefully a new government will be less restrictive. As this tale of a county attempting to exemplify a good corporate citizenship for others to follow continues, we will keep you informed of the month to month progress, blow by blow!

Many of the lakes in the area are still yielding lunkers like this 11 and three-quarter pound lake trout caught by Gary Holland July 18. He caught the 28 inch fish in Boshkung Lake, using a Williams wobbler.

O'Reilly opposes more restrictive gun controls

Responding to numerous inquiries regarding his position on gun control, Victoria-Haliburton Member of Parliament John O'Reilly said he believes Canadians have a right to own firearms, under certain conditions.

"I am a gun collector and I am not in favour of more gun control which has an impact on the activities of hunters, farmers and sport shooters," O'Reilly said. Statistics have shown that the top three users of firearms in Canada are hunters, gun collectors and target shooters, so they could suffer through new gun control legislation.

"It is also a tribute to Victoria-Haliburton, and responsible gun handling, that an area shooter will participate at the Commonwealth Games this summer at Victoria, British Columbia, as a member of the Canadian National Women's Shooting Team," he added.

"I believe that Canadians have a legitimate privilege to own a firearm. However, there are certain conditions which go along with owning a firearm. There must be proof of a valid Firearms Acquisition Certificate, of which, there are 180,000 issued each year. And there are close to one million in good standing," O'Reilly stated. "FACs can be issued to anyone 18 years of age and over, who fulfills the FAC requirements, including the successful completion of the Canadian Firearms Safety Course or test.

"The firearm must also be properly stored, preferably in a locked cabinet, unloaded and in a secure area with the trigger locked or the bolt carrier removed," O'Reilly added. "The ammunition must also be locked in a secure area."

"As a matter of fact, these regulations have been in effect since January 1, 1993," he continued. "I do not believe in storing guns in a community lock-up because it has the potential of becoming a target for thieves."

O'Reilly believes that the way to stem the tide of violence is to strike at the root of the problem -- the violent criminal.

"Tougher criminal legislation is the best way to address the problem of violence in our society," he stated. "Tougher gun laws, which would hinder the activities of farmers, hunters, gun collectors, target shooters or gun club members, do not address the root problem of violence in Canada."

O'Reilly added that Federal Justice Minister Alan Rock has said he will bring in new gun control legislation this fall.

"I look forward to seeing what his intentions are with the legislation," O'Reilly said. "He has said that it will be a comprehensive strategy against violence in Canada and I look forward to seeing the wording of the legislation. Furthermore, I will watch closely to see if it affects responsible firearms owners in Canada."

Country Good Times fun for the whole family

This years annual Country Good Times carnival was full of excitement and fun for everyone. Along with the midway, visitors were able to enjoy an amateur contest, games of chance, a pancake breakfast, craft and flea market featuring a variety of items and dances. The parade on Saturday had a slow start as spectators waited in the hot sun, but once it began, the crowd of mostly children, went wild trying to collect many candies tossed from the passing floats LOVING THE MIDWAY: As usual, the midway was a big hit with youngsters and adults alike. This young girl discovered the caterpillar roller coaster was her favourite.

CATCHING A FEW ZZZ's: A patient mother holds her sleepy daughter as they wait for the parade to begin.

TAKING IN THE VIEW: Dillon Donaldson kept his eye on the crowd lining the parade route from his Cardiff fire truck window.

CLOWNING AROUND: This clown kept the crowd entertained as she drove around in her crazy pint sized car

Summerwind will be featured at CHACE benefit dance

Quick — mark this date on your calendar: Saturday, September 17, 1994. What's happening? C.H.A.C.E., in conjunction with the Wigamog Inn, is holding a benefit dance featuring Summerwind!

This is bound to be an exciting evening full of laughter, good company and great music! The proceeds from the evening will go toward all of C.H.A.C.E.'s programs in order that we may continue to provide the same level of service to our families, despite new cuts in funding.

Tickets will be available at all C.H.A.C.E. centres or by calling 457-2989 - don't let your calendar fill up without marking this date.

Our third annual "C.H.A.C.E. Day at Dave's on 35" is fast approaching. This has been a very successful fund raising venture for C.H.A.C.E. thanks in great part to the generosity of Dave Honderich. This year's annual will be held October 1 at Dave's on 35 from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. In case our "C.H.A.C.E. Day" is new to any of you, this event is a giant yard sale of donated items (we'd love any items you might have) and baked goods. There is always an excellent raffle and Dave donates a portion of the profits of each burger sold to C.H.A.C.E.

Come on out as you enjoy the Studio Tour, pick up some great buys and support an agency that supports the families of your community.

And speaking of supporting each other, I'm so happy to be able to list additional donators to our Program Recovery Campaign:

Brian Carney of the Financial Concept Group
The Storeroom Natural Foods
Kawartha Dairy.

Our heartfelt thanks to those and all of the other businesses who support this campaign.

If you're looking for an exciting way for you and your children (yours or the ones you care for) to spend the day, give C.H.A.C.E. a try. Both of our Resource Centres (in Haliburton and Minden) are free to use and waiting to know how to meet your needs. Our Mobile Family Outreach Program stops at a community near you and is eager to reach out and help build community friendships. Think of us too, for your licensed child care needs. For information on any of C.H.A.C.E.'s services, please call us at 457-2989, Monday to Friday.

Warm blankets are probably the farthest things from anyone's minds these days, however for a group of Minden area women, they are a top priority. Terry Campbell, above, Georgina Deeks and Pat McMurter have been knitting blankets which will be donated to the Women's Emergency House being proposed by the local committee. In addition to the full size covering, they are also knitting smaller blankets for infants' and children's beds. The knitters are quickly exhausting their supply of wool and would appreciate receiving any wool scraps readers may have available. If you can help, please contact Terry Campbell at 286-1031.

The age of science

Reflections

by David Suzuki

...but there is still much we don't know

The 20th century will undoubtedly be remembered as the Age of Science. In the first part of this century, physicists unlocked the secrets of matter and energy while the second half has belonged to biologists with profound insights into DNA, the molecular blueprint of all life. Science seems to provide the ability to manage the impact of human activity and technology. However, compared to what we DON'T KNOW, the knowledge we have acquired in this century is miniscule. The most recent announcement of the continued decline of northern cod in the Atlantic reveals how little we know about them.

Biologists tell me there are hundreds, if not thousands of unidentified micro-organisms in a spoonful of soil. In this country, we are not close to saturating our collection of flora and fauna above ground. Of thousands of new insect species, for example, that have been collected in Canada, over half of them have yet to be identified!

Even when a dead specimen has been given a name, that species' distribution, life cycle, nutritional and habitat needs, and interactions with other species, are probably not known.

Harvard biologist E.O. Wilson estimates we have identified fewer than five per cent off all species alive today and that we are driving them to extinction far faster than we are discovering them.

It is hard to understand how anyone can speak about controlling, preventing or mitigating the potential destructive effects of clearcut logging, soil degradation, megadams, overfishing, water and air pollution, nuclear waste and so on.

We cannot "manage" populations of wild plants and animals or "resources" such as soil, water or air, when our ignorance is so vast. All we do is try to manipulate "resources" to maximize the fulfillment of a diversity of human demands.

If that seems harsh, consider this. One of the most popular organisms for genetic study has been an insect called Drosophila melanogaster, a fruit fly. Scientists have focussed on it for over 80 years and have discovered some of our most important hereditary principles by breeding fruit flies. At least three Nobel prizes were won by fruit fly experts. The research money spent on experiments with this insect amounts to billions of dollars. With that kind of attention, we've learned a lot about Drosophila. It's easy to raise flies with four wings instead of two, with legs growing out of their heads, with twelve legs instead of six. In our lab, we created flies with inherited defects of blindness, uncontrollable shaking and total paralysis. And yet, we have no idea how the flies survive Canadian winters! We know very little about their distribution and behaviour in the wild. And Drosophila melanogaster is just one of thousands of species of Drosophila!

When we look at soil fungi, insects, tropical plants, coral invertebrates or wetland microorganisms, the scale of our ignorance is breathtaking.

Recently, Gary Braasch, a nature photographer, wrote me: "For three weeks, I stayed in and around a single Sloanea tree, photographing nearly every creature, plant and phenomenon that occurred there, working mostly from a temporary platform 150 feet above the forest floor.

"The result of this extended quiet observing is thousands of images, including panoramic views of canopy and buttress roots, portraits of monkeys and snakes, and macro details of insects, fungi and epiphytes." The result of his study is a stunning set of pictures (some of which grace the current issue of Life Magazine) which reveal a complex community of organisms about whose makeup and interaction we know nothing.

The accompanying text describes the tree: "Two centuries ago, an airborne seed touched down on a hillside in Costa Rica and began its journey toward the sun. Since then it has grown some 200 feet and its limbs have become a natural ark for hundreds of animals, plants and insects. It is a tree unlike any other, and yet, in one way, it resembles millions around the world: It may not have a future. We are told 33 million trees like it are felled each day." There are those to whom a tree is merely a commodity. An executive of a forest company once told me: "A tree doesn't have any value until it's cut down." But Braasch shows a tree, any tree, is far more. And left alone, its life is not measured in the few hundred years it may stand upright. After it dies and falls, it will continue to nourish the soil and other life for hundreds more. The reason science continues to fascinate some of the best minds in the world is because there are so many fascinating questions yet to be solved. It takes nothing away from the achievements of scientists to point out how much we have yet to learn before we can seriously talk about managing nature.

BRIDGE OVER TROUBLED WATER: Those crossing over the Kinmount bridge this weekend were treated to an interesting view of the Burnt River. One lane of the deck has been removed, leaving gaping holes where the roadway used to be. As refurbishing work continues on the structure traffic over the bridge is restricted to a single lane. The traffic hold up has resulted in some concerns, particularly by area merchants. However, after expressing their concerns, most concede that there is little that can be done except to grin and bear it.

Trent-Severn waterway report

On Monday July 11, the Haliburton Lakes of the Trent Severn waterway averaged 89.7% of capacity, down 3% from the Monday before. The decline was a little less than the usual 3.5% per week, despite having to draw some water for canal purposes. The volume of the lakes was about 5% greater than normal, but still lower than the 1993 volumes by about 2%.

Dry weather is continuing, though it is cooler than some summers. This will likely result in continued need for reserve water from the Haliburton reservoir lakes, but not likely in record amounts.

(Prepared by the Trent-Severn Waterway on July 15)

At home or cottage make safety your top priority this summer

(Prepared as a public service, by the Ontario Real Estate Association and local Realtors.)

Everyone looks forward to enjoying summer and all the fun-filled activities that go with it. But before you head out for your fun in the sun, make sure you pause for a few minutes and think about summer safety.

Cottaging and boating, for instance, are two big summer highlights for a lot of Ontario homeowners. And if you're a cottager, water safety is of paramount importance.

Summer safety is also important in and around your home - and there are plenty of things you should keep in mind with pools, barbecues, tubs, back yard sports and recreation, gardening and home renovations.

At Home

When gardening, avoid leaving tools lying around where people can step or trip on them and injure themselves. Anyone who has ever stepped on the wrong end of a rake knows what a hazard this can pose!

Keep these items stored in a safe place and keep garden chemicals safely out of harm's way as well. When applying herbicides or pesticides, avoid handling this chore on a windy day, when chemicals can blow back in your face - or drift on to a neighbour's property.

Be sure to follow the directions on the label and wear the appropriate protective clothing when spraying. Keep the windows and doors closed and make sure your children and pets are well out of harm's way.

On the other hand, if you see a warning sign on a neighbour's lawn indicating recent application of pesticides, keeps your pets and children off that property.

Before you cut your lawn with an electric mower, make sure the grass is dry; otherwise you could be in for a nasty shock - literally!

Repairs and Renovations

If you're having repairs or renovations made to your home, make sure equipment is never left unattended - particularly sharp objects and power tools; these can be extremely enticing to inquisitive youngsters.

A new roof can result in a lot of small debris and nails around the perimeter of your home - regardless of how careful and meticulous the roofers are. So be careful when you and your family are playing or working outdoors - even long after the job is completed.

If you're handling some renovations yourself - or merely painting the outside of your home - make sure ladders are based securely and get someone to hold the ladder for you. It's also a good idea to make sure someone is always at home when you are doing renovation work - in case you need help in a hurry. After all, you don't want to get stranded up on your roof if the ladder accidentally gets knocked down.

Planning for a safe summer

Pools & Barbecues

If you have a pool, most municipalities require that it be properly enclosed with a secure fence of substantial height. You should also make sure no one swims or plays around the pool unsupervised. And keep in mind that slips and falls can happen easily on wet surfaces around the pool - so keep a careful watch over children. Keep safety equipment close by in case you need to use it.

As with other areas of your home, don't leave a lot of toys, equipment or other paraphernalia lying around where people can trip over them.

If you have a barbecue, make sure someone is always on hand to supervise it when in use - particularly if you have youngsters or pets. Don't operate barbecues directly against woodwork or glass because they do generate heat. As well, never use a gas barbecue indoors or store it indoors with the gas tank still attached.

And if you have a charcoal barbecue, always make sure that matches, lighter fluid and charcoal are kept in a safe, secure place, well out of reach of youngsters.

At the Cottage

The same common sense safety rules apply at the cottage as well. Never leave youngsters unattended outdoors and take care when walking along the dock and operating watercraft.

You should never swim alone and should avoid diving or jumping into unknown or shallow water. Numerous injuries are caused every year by this. And when boating, make sure everyone wears a life jacket.

Pay attention to weather forecasts when out on the water and use the appropriate sunscreen to protect you from harmful rays.

If you have a particularly rocky shoreline and a rocky-bottom lake, wear appropriate foot protection to give you traction and protect you from scrapes and cuts. Water shoes are a popular option.

In the cottage, make sure your chimney flue isn't blocked before lighting a fire - and don't leave outdoor campfires unattended.

With just a little forethought and planning, you can make sure your summer is a safe, happy and enjoyable one.

PARTICIPATION

Make your move.

Auction sale raises $2,129 at home

On Saturday July 9, the Hyland Crest Auxiliary held an auction sale in the auditorium. The crowd was small, however they were able to raise $2,129 which was considered to be a good evening. On behalf of the members of the Ladies Auxiliary, I would like to thank all those who donated items for the sale and who assisted by sorting, setting up and those who bid on the items.

Sunday, Estella Burch came and read another chapter of our book. We enjoy it so much. Thank you Estella. Rev. John Burgess conducted the Sunday evening service. Lorna Roland played the organ. It was a good service. Thank you John and Lorna.

Tuesday we loaded the bus and headed for Stop 35 in Minden for lunch. We had a wonderful lunch and enjoyed ourselves while there.

The service was great. Thanks to Lewis Stevens and his staff. Thanks as well to Doris, Linda and all the volunteers who helped us.

Wednesday, the Grandfathers four were in to entertain, but due to unavoidable circumstances only two of the musicians were able to attend, Eldon Deacon and George Smith. They did a great job. This was the group's last performance before September. We thank the Grandfathers Four for their thoughtfulness and for bringing musical enjoyment our way.

Thursday, the Minden Lawn Bowlers came to host our tea party for us. They provided a delicious lunch. We enjoyed it immensely. The bowlers included Edith McKay, Ed McKay, Ruth McKay, Eleanor Cain, Eleanor Smith, Doris Grant, May Sinclair, Ross Farr, Sandra Patenaude and Pearl Cowan. The entertainment was spontaneous.

Mr. Farr and Mr. McKay sang for us. We all joined in and sang. This sure livened up the tea party and we sincerely thank all those who took part. We hope to see you all again. In the evening we played bingo.

Happy hour was held in the auditorium on Friday with Al Blanchard and his band. It was fine entertainment. The members were Neil Howe, Oscar Stewart, Al Blanchard, Julia Chambers and Marilyn Guiles, Grace Coburn sang a duet with one of the guests.

Everyone enjoyed the music and seemed to have a happy time. We sincerely thank Al and his group. Volunteers included Don and Ellen Holden, Dottie Muirhead and Mary Guillemine. Thank very much for meeting the needs of our residents. Until next time, stay cool.

Don't forget our rummage sale on July 30, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Clinics assess communication skills of toddlers

The Haliburton, Kawartha, Pine Ridge District Health Unit has announced the return of Toddler Clinics.

A child's ability to communicate is built upon being able to hear, see and speak. By the time children reach three years of age, they will have learned 80% of all the language skills they will need to communicate well. If children suffer hearing loss because of illness or exposure to loud noises, they will not learn to speak as well as they should. Speech or hearing problems can result in social, emotional or learning problems. It is important to check your children's speech, hearing and vision to make sure they are developing as they should; if problems are found early enough, they can be treated.

Starting September 1 and running through November 3, parents can make an appointment to bring in their 3 to 3 1/2 year old children (born between March 1 to August 31, 1991) to have their speech, hearing and vision checked. The clinic takes no longer than 30 minutes of a parent's time.

Take advantage of this free clinic. To make an appointment, please call the Health Unit office nearest you today, as appointments are limited. Call collect if necessary.

In Haliburton the of-face number is (705) 457-1391.

MINISTRY OF NATURAL RESOURCES

Public Notice of a Prescribed Burn

Between late June and mid-August, the Ministry of Natural Resources will be conducting a prescribed burn for reforestation purposes on a 96 ha. (237 acre) parcel of Crown land in Hindon Township. The location of the burn will be between Cinder Lake and Tingey Lake - approximately 8 km southwest of Pine Springs. The exact date of the burn will depend on suitable weather conditions and any northern fire fighting assignments for the Haliburton Fire Centre's crews. The most probable date for the burning will be during the last two weeks of July.

If you observe smoke or helicopter activity in the area of the prescribed burn during this period, please do not drive to the area for a closer look. Access to the burn site will be closed, and curious on-lookers will only block traffic on the access road and impede the movements of the M.N.R. fire crew. You will be welcome to view the site after the fire has been extinguished.

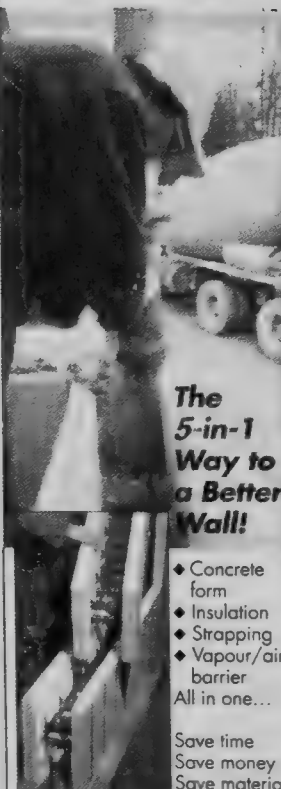

The purpose of this prescribed burn is to prepare a recently logged area for the planting of 200,000 pine and spruce trees in the spring of 1995. For more information on this prescribed burn or on other forestry activities in this area, please contact Peter Hynard of the M.N.R. Minden office at (705) 286-1521. For information on the day of the burn, call the Haliburton Fire Centre at (705) 457-2107.

Around the County Town

by Jeanne Sears (call 286-1538)

Visiting recently with Mr and Mrs Earl Hewitt were Mr and Mrs Arthur Thorpe of Brampton and Mrs Ivan Ebergeni and children of Cancun, Mexico.

Club 35 euchre game winners for July 18 included Cliff Woolner with most lone hands, Helen Windsor and Eric Tomkins with the high scores and Stella McGrath, Bill Durkin and Olive Upton. The 50-50 went to Jean Duesbury and the next wheels to meals dinner is August 2.

Cathy and Warren Whelen hosted a family reunion at their Horseshoe Lake cottage on Saturday, July 23. All four of their children and twenty-five other relatives attended. The cottage was built by Don and Warren's parents 59 summers ago. The reunion and Sunday brunch at the Red Umbrella were also the family celebration of Cathy and Warren's 40th wedding anniversary since they will be bicycling along the Danube River in Austria on the actual date later this summer.

Minden Legion Branch 636 euchre game winners for July 14 included Ellen Holden and Marie Dennie with most lone hands, Ellen Cole and Truman McNeil with the highs, others were Murray Mackinnon, Ellen Lee, Gladys Wruth, Jack Chilton, Carol Hill and Ellen Holden.

Dennis Potter and daughter Sheri of St. Thomas were recent visitors with Vivian Kernohan.

We had a very nice phone visit with June Steadman of Brampton who has been visiting with Ron and Dot Robinson, Marnie Robinson and other relatives and friends.

St. Paul's weekly euchre game winners for July 18 were Marie Dennie with most lone hands, Pearl Cowen, Irene Fuhr and Marian Ingram. Marie also took the draw. These games are lots of fun and everyone is welcome to join in at 1:30 on Mondays.

The Gerald O'Reilly's had some of their family visit them at their lovely home near Gelert last week.

Audrey and Bob Vick and Julie and Meighan Woolfrey from Bridgenorth visited with Audrey's sister Blanche and Clark Miller at Perkinsfield for a family get-together.

Stanhope Bid Euchre group hosted a Gravenhurst Seniors group of about 35 last Wednesday evening and had a pot-luck supper with games following. Moon Shots for July 20 went to Edith Russell, Don Sinclair, Ida Young, Jim Foster, Mel Good, Brenda Whaler and Vera Anne Ruttan. First prize went to Vera Anne Ruttan, second to Ruth Graham and third to Marg Bonnis. Winners (men) were 1. George Hewitt, 2. Vern Gooding and 3. Stan Walters.

Get ready for a big bid euchre tournament on August 17 starting at 11 a.m. Tickets are required in advance so call 754-2770.

Sincere sympathy to the family and friends of the late Gerald LeBoutillier who passed away recently.

The Legion Seniors Group is planning a trip on the Trent Canal on August 9. For information call 286-2692.

The Haliburton County Fair needs help with manning the ticket booths at the Fair on August 20 and 21. If you can spare two or three hours over the weekend, it would be greatly appreciated. It is not all standing as some of the booths do have stools. If you can help out please call Shirley Horsley 286-1235 or Joan Moore 488-2613.

Winners at the weekly Tuesday afternoon bridge games in Stanhope included Edythe Metcalfe, John Coleman and Kate Cline and Helen Cassidy tying for third. Everyone is welcome to attend, no partners required and the games begin at 1 p.m. sharp every Tuesday.

Good wishes to those on the sick list including Walter Austen and Iris Taylor.

Gladys Reid and daughter Pat Reid of Toronto enjoyed a holiday at St. Andrews, New Brunswick.

Gerald and Betty Hicks have been away for their holiday in Port Elgin.

Bill and Kathy Cave and children from Moosejaw, Saskatchewan, Howard and Jeffrey Dart from Newcastle, Wilhelmine Thomson and grandson Scott of Ottawa were recent guests with the Bob Vick family and Dorothy McElwain.

Brian Schroter enjoyed a visit with his parents, Ralph and Kit recently.

County Town Museum meeting is planned for Wednesday, July 27 at 10 a.m. at the Bowron Homestead.

Summer carnivals coming up soon - Minden Rotary Club's annual event is July 27 and Haliburton's on August 3.

Please note that the County Town Museum hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays. Guided tours are scheduled each day at 11 a.m., 1 p.m., and 3 p.m.

Royal Canadian Legion Branch 636 euchre winners for July 22 included Dorothy Rutherford and Jim Bradbury with most lone hands, June Brennan and Roy McDonald with the high scores, May Bradbury, John Rutherford, H. Stewart, Elli Langpohl, Verna McDonald and Helen Lee.

CARDS OF THANKS

Wilberforce Volunteer Police thank the 50-50 draw supporters. The winner of $856 was ticket # 176 held by Morley Marquette, Combermere. 7D

Minden United Church woman wish to thank everyone who helped in any way to make our dinner and bazaar so successful. We do appreciate your assistance.

The Highlands Artisans' Festival Committee would like to thank the following for their assistance and support: All the volunteers who assisted with the Festival; members of the community who provided the musical entertainment; all demonstrating artists, the County Town Museum Committee; our Security Guards; Community Centre Manager, Brian Sisson and his staff; Warden Jim McMahon and Reeve Bern Berry and members of Council; area businesses who displayed posters and handed out flyers; the Municipality of Anson, Hindon and Minden; Superintendent of Public Works Clayton Cameron and his staff; Barry Nichols and CHAY FM Radio; Pat Campbell who supplied floral displays; the Minden Carnival Queen; the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce; the Minden IGA and Valu-mart, John Francis Fuels, Hope Satellite and Stop 35 for promotion; all participating artists and all who attended. We hope to see you again in 1995.

CARDS OF THANKS

To Whom it May Concern
I should like to thank all the wonderful people who donated articles for our Yard Sale of July 16, 1994. To the people who came to our sale and left with less money in their pockets - thanks. To the workers, both members and volunteers, you did a wonderful job, each and every one of you - thanks. To Marian Hill who made sandwiches for lunch and to Stan Hill for "he knows what", thanks. Special thanks to all who bought tickets on our quilt and special thanks to Esther Graham and Muriel Bird who made the quilt and donated it to us. Thanks also to Brian at the arena and thanks to Reeve Bern Berry for helping to clean up.
Lee Oster, Chairman
County Town Museum & Pioneer Centre, Minden.

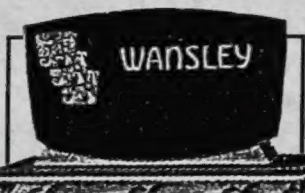

IN MEMORIAM

STEWART: In loving memory of a beloved husband, father, grandfather and great-grandfather, Everton G. Stewart "Curly", who passed away July 26, 1991.

We think of you in silence now
And often speak your name,
But all we have are memories
And pictures in a frame.
If tears could build a stairway
And memories a lane,
We would all walk to heaven
And bring you home again.
Lovingly remembered by his wife Luverne, son Barry, Carol grandchildren and great-grandchildren.
